Syn. 8. 54. 83

Pronostycacyon

of Erra Pater, Doctor in Astronomye, and Phesyke, Profytable for to kepe the body in helth, & Ptholome sayth the same.

As I fynde in the ſcy=
ence of Aſtronomye/
There ben foure maner of Coo= lers in a mannes body of the .iiii.
Complexyons. The fyrſte is blode, the ſeconde blacke Cooler, the thyrde flcumes, & the fourth yelowe Cooler. And yf one of the .iiii. lacke, all the body ſhuld be anone forthwith deed, for as moche ſuſteyneth one of theym the body, as the other. And euerych of them oughte to be at a certayne, for and one of theym ſermount the other, all the body ſhall haue domage therby, & all .iiii. be rygȝt perylloꝰs. for and the blode ſur mount the other, he myghte eſteygner diſtroye & ouercome the bodye, & make hym to dye, for he gadreth & congeleth euen rygȝt on the herte and taketh away the flatte, ſpyrite, & the brethe, and in that maner (leſteygne) and is ouercome & deade. But at that tyme whan ȳ great courſe taketh hym, he maye ſoone be aſwaged to leſſe hym a lytel to take away a lytel blod from hym and anone all wyll aſwage of this peryll.
¶ Alſo the blacke Cooler be right perylloꝰs & they ſurmounte all ȳ other, they maye domage greatly the bodye, & by many dyuers maners, for they maye cauſe and make the bodye to fall on the euyll ſyckeneſſe, and leſe his wytte and knowledge, and become a foole, and cause also the body to be full of euyll scabbes, & often tymes to be mesell, and maketh a man to be feare full, and a cowarde, & of many euyll maners. And whan they surmounte the other: they be ryght greuous & domageous. And by herbes, flowres, fastynge, abstynence, drynkes, and medycynes they may be aswaged.

¶ The fleumes ỳ be whyte be peryllous when they surmounte the other Coolers of ỳ bodye, they do great domage and hurte, for they engendre gowtes & many other euyll sycknesses that be colde, and they hurte also the feete and the handes, and the raynes, and the knees, the legges, & the tethe, & make the mouthe and the breth stynkyng, & the nose, & ỳ eares, & causeth many other dyseases and sycknesses, but they may be aswaged by herbes, flowres, rotes, drynkes, medycynes, & also by vomyssyng.

¶ Also the yelowe Coolers, be peryllous, for whē they surmount ỳ other Coolers, in a mannes body, they (assorbent) the herte & trauayll the brayne, and maketh all the membres feble and softe, and taketh awaye the wyll and the appetyte frō the body, that he may not eate nor drynke. And also they chaūge a mances coloure, and maketh hym to lose his syght and become blynde, & they may be also aswaged as the other fleumes be, by herbes, flowers, rootes, and by vomyssynge.
